

EL PROYECTO EXPERIMENTAL MEXICALI

[En] En 1975, el arquitecto Christopher Alexander recibió una invitación de la Universidad pública de Baja California (UBC) para dar una conferencia en la ciudad fronteriza de Mexicali...

[En] En la década de 1970, el mundo estaba experimentando la migración más rápida de personas a ciudades y urbanizaciones de la historia...

En muchos sentidos, el experimento de Mexicali formó parte de la vitalidad arquitectónica desde finales de los sesenta...

Debido a contrastes económicos, políticos e institucionales, sólo se terminaron cinco de las treinta casas previstas originalmente...

Medio siglo después, a medida que la crisis de la vivienda se agrava en todo el mundo, este experimento sigue ofreciendo muchas lecciones para pensar en cuenta...

[En] En 1975, architect Christopher Alexander received an invitation to lecture at the public University of Baja California (UBC) in the border city of Mexicali...

[En] En la revolución y la agitación tras la caída de los sesenta, la arquitectura se embarcó en proyectos experimentales que fomentaban una sensibilidad política más imaginativa...

[En] Mexicali was founded in 1903 as a silver city in California, in an effort to link the natural resources and infrastructure of both regions...

[En] In the wake of the revolta and upheaval of the late sixties, architecture engaged in experimental projects that fostered a political and imaginative mindset...

spiritual needs. His theories were based on the idea that buildings should also be human and "beautiful places," or as he called them, "whole and timeless."

LAS LUCHAS THE STRUGGLES

[En] En la década de 1970, millones de personas de todo el mundo se dieron cuenta de que el Estado no les ofrecían un hogar digno...

[En] En la década de 1970, millones de personas de todo el mundo se dieron cuenta de que el Estado no les ofrecían un hogar digno...

[En] For countless communities around the world, the boom years of the 1970s that neither the state nor the market was able to address their increasingly urgent housing needs...

[En] In the 1970s, the world was experiencing the fastest migration of people to cities and towns in history...

[En] Mexico se fundó en 1903 como ciudad minera de California (California), en un esfuerzo por unir la naturaleza y las infraestructuras de ambas regiones...

[En] En noviembre de 1975, el arquitecto Christopher Alexander había conseguido reunir a arquitectos mexicanos y estadounidenses...

[En] In 1975, Dorit Fromm and Peter Rosenthal returned to interview the Mexicali families. They discovered that all access to the common area had been blocked...

[En] In 1984, Dorit Fromm and Peter Rosenthal returned to interview the Mexicali families. They discovered that all access to the common area had been blocked...

[En] In many ways, the Mexicali experiment was part of the architectural vitality of the late sixties and early seventies, which saw an explosion of public housing and informal settlements...

LA CIUDAD THE CITY

[En] In 1975, architect Christopher Alexander received an invitation to lecture at the public University of Baja California (UBC) in the border city of Mexicali...

[En] En la revolución y la agitación tras la caída de los sesenta, la arquitectura se embarcó en proyectos experimentales que fomentaban una sensibilidad política más imaginativa...

[En] Mexico se fundó en 1903 como ciudad minera de California (California), en un esfuerzo por unir la naturaleza y las infraestructuras de ambas regiones...

[En] En noviembre de 1975, el arquitecto Christopher Alexander había conseguido reunir a arquitectos mexicanos y estadounidenses...

[En] In 1975, Dorit Fromm and Peter Rosenthal returned to interview the Mexicali families. They discovered that all access to the common area had been blocked...

[En] In 1984, Dorit Fromm and Peter Rosenthal returned to interview the Mexicali families. They discovered that all access to the common area had been blocked...

[En] In many ways, the Mexicali experiment was part of the architectural vitality of the late sixties and early seventies, which saw an explosion of public housing and informal settlements...

[En] In the wake of the revolta and upheaval of the late sixties, architecture engaged in experimental projects that fostered a political and imaginative mindset...

[En] In many ways, the Mexicali experiment was part of the architectural vitality of the late sixties and early seventies, which saw an explosion of public housing and informal settlements...

LA PRODUCCION DE CRISIS THE PRODUCTION OF HOUSES

[En] En la década de 1970, millones de personas de todo el mundo se dieron cuenta de que el Estado no les ofrecían un hogar digno...

[En] En la década de 1970, millones de personas de todo el mundo se dieron cuenta de que el Estado no les ofrecían un hogar digno...

[En] For countless communities around the world, the boom years of the 1970s that neither the state nor the market was able to address their increasingly urgent housing needs...

[En] In the 1970s, the world was experiencing the fastest migration of people to cities and towns in history...

[En] Mexico se fundó en 1903 como ciudad minera de California (California), en un esfuerzo por unir la naturaleza y las infraestructuras de ambas regiones...

[En] En noviembre de 1975, el arquitecto Christopher Alexander había conseguido reunir a arquitectos mexicanos y estadounidenses...

[En] In 1975, Dorit Fromm and Peter Rosenthal returned to interview the Mexicali families. They discovered that all access to the common area had been blocked...

[En] In 1984, Dorit Fromm and Peter Rosenthal returned to interview the Mexicali families. They discovered that all access to the common area had been blocked...

[En] In many ways, the Mexicali experiment was part of the architectural vitality of the late sixties and early seventies, which saw an explosion of public housing and informal settlements...

MEXICALI DE NUEVO MEXICALI REVISITED

[En] En la década de 1970, millones de personas de todo el mundo se dieron cuenta de que el Estado no les ofrecían un hogar digno...

[En] En la década de 1970, millones de personas de todo el mundo se dieron cuenta de que el Estado no les ofrecían un hogar digno...

[En] For countless communities around the world, the boom years of the 1970s that neither the state nor the market was able to address their increasingly urgent housing needs...

[En] In the 1970s, the world was experiencing the fastest migration of people to cities and towns in history...

[En] Mexico se fundó en 1903 como ciudad minera de California (California), en un esfuerzo por unir la naturaleza y las infraestructuras de ambas regiones...

[En] En noviembre de 1975, el arquitecto Christopher Alexander había conseguido reunir a arquitectos mexicanos y estadounidenses...

[En] In 1975, Dorit Fromm and Peter Rosenthal returned to interview the Mexicali families. They discovered that all access to the common area had been blocked...

[En] In 1984, Dorit Fromm and Peter Rosenthal returned to interview the Mexicali families. They discovered that all access to the common area had been blocked...

[En] In many ways, the Mexicali experiment was part of the architectural vitality of the late sixties and early seventies, which saw an explosion of public housing and informal settlements...

THE MEXICALI EXPERIMENTAL PROJECT

[En] In November 1975, architect Christopher Alexander had succeeded in bringing together a number of Mexican and US agencies, including the University of Baja California (UBC) and the Center for Environmental Structure (CES), to conduct an experiment in low-cost housing in an informal settlement on the outskirts of Mexicali...

[En] In the 1970s, the world was experiencing the fastest migration of people to cities and towns in history...

[En] Mexico se fundó en 1903 como ciudad minera de California (California), en un esfuerzo por unir la naturaleza y las infraestructuras de ambas regiones...

[En] En noviembre de 1975, el arquitecto Christopher Alexander había conseguido reunir a arquitectos mexicanos y estadounidenses...

[En] In 1975, Dorit Fromm and Peter Rosenthal returned to interview the Mexicali families. They discovered that all access to the common area had been blocked...

[En] In 1984, Dorit Fromm and Peter Rosenthal returned to interview the Mexicali families. They discovered that all access to the common area had been blocked...

[En] In many ways, the Mexicali experiment was part of the architectural vitality of the late sixties and early seventies, which saw an explosion of public housing and informal settlements...

[En] In the wake of the revolta and upheaval of the late sixties, architecture engaged in experimental projects that fostered a political and imaginative mindset...